Crail, Candidate For Congress, Is Rotary Speaker

Favors High Dam and All-American Canal; Coolidge Booster

Joe Crail, Los Angeles attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Tenth district, which includes Torrance, was the speaker today at the luncheon of the Rotary Club of Torrance.

Mr. Crail has been prominent in California politics for many years. He managed the campaign of Charles Evans Hughes in Southern California in 1920, carrying this section for the Republican candidate by 35,000 votes.

He also managed the Southern California campaign of Hiram Johnson when Johnson first was elected to the United States Senate. He also managed the state campaign when William D. Stephens was elected governor.

For Big Dam To assure the passage of legislation by Congress authorizing government construction of the Boulder Dam project and the All-American Canal, the Tenth Congressional District of California must send a man to Washington who is not only an advocate of those enterprises but who will command the confidence of the Coolidge administration, according to John W. Kemp, Los Angeles attorney, who has accepted the chairmanship of the campaign committee for Mr. Crail.

"Los Angeles County has various important problems pending in Congress, but overshadowing them all is the Boulder Dam project," said Mr. Kemp. "The best way the success of this great enterprise can be assured is to elect a man who is not only in sympathy with the project but in harmony with the Republican administration in control at Washington. Mr. Crail is such a man."

"Mr. Crail's principal opponent for the Republican nomination was three times the Socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles. The fact that he is now registered as a Republican will scarcely be accepted by the Republicans at Washington as an evidence of loyal Republicanism, while Mr. Crail has advocated those things in the party's councils which stand for progressive and humanitarian ideals and for honest and efficient government. He is a tried and true Republican."

A MESSAGE

To The Housewives of Torrance from the Board of Trustees About Garbage Collection

Desirous of arriving at the most satisfactory solution of the city's problem of garbage collection and disposal, your city trustees have rejected all bids for a contract for this service and authorized an investigation into various methods. The first aim of such a service is satisfaction to the people of Torrance. We therefore invite your suggestions regarding this collection service.

Would it be an improvement, in your mind, if the city collected its own garbage, hiring men to do the work and making them at all times directly responsible to the city?

Any suggestions regarding collection or disposal will be gratefully received by us, in the hope that we can reduce complaints to a minimum and at the lowest possible cost institute satisfactory service.
